

Aberffraw

Cyfeiriwyd at Ynys Môn fel "mam Cymru", ac yn anterth y tywysogion, Aberffraw oedd ei hanheddiad pwysicaf. A dweud y gwir, mabwysiadodd Llywelyn Fawr y teitl swyddogol 'Tywysog Aberffraw ac Arglwydd Eryri' ym 1230. Y gred yw i'r adeiladau brenhinol helaeth sefyll gerllaw Eglwys Sant Beuno, y mae rhannau ohoni'n dyddio'n ôl i'r 12fed ganrif. Ar ôl concwest Edward ar Wynedd, cafodd y llys ei ddatgymalu a'i ddefnyddio i ddarparu deunydd ar gyfer Castell Biwmaris, wrth i ffortiwn Aberffraw weigian.

Saif Aberffraw ar yr A4080, 2½ filltir o orsaf drenau Bodorgan

Anglesey has been referred to as "the granary of Wales", and in the heyday of the princes Aberffraw was its most important settlement. In fact, in 1230 Llywelyn the Great adopted the official title 'Prince of Aberffraw and Lord of Snowdon'. The extensive royal buildings are thought to have stood near the Church of St Beuno, parts of which date back to the 12th century. After Edward I's conquest of Gwynedd the llys was dismantled and used to provide material for Beaumaris Castle, while Aberffraw's fortunes declined.

Aberffraw lies on the A4080, 2½ miles from Bodorgan railway station

- 1 Parcio wrth ymyl y ffordd / Roadside parking
- 2 Eglwys Sant Beuno / Church of St Beuno
- 3 Waliau'r 12fed ganrif / 12th century walls
- 4 Safle'r llys sydd bellach wedi'i orchuddio gan dai / Site of the llys now covered by housing

